

PRACTICAL SPACE-SAVING PRODUCTS ENHANCE STYLISH OUTDOOR DINING

Today's discerning families demand performance and style from any product used in order to enjoy the very best and most comfortable outdoor living experience. But weight and space can be an issue as you attempt to squeeze those quality essentials into limited storage space. The answer lies in the latest chic, practical Collaps range of kitchen equipment and tableware from the award-winning outdoor manufacturer, Outwell.

The popular comprehensive portfolio contains products to meet all occasions. The selection includes items like pots, kettles, bowls, storage containers, baskets and washing-up bowls that normally require a huge amount of space for storage and transportation. But the Collaps range solves the problem by using a sophisticated siliconised rubber material that folds flat for easy storage.

Open, the durable, heat resistant material is perfect for preparing and serving up hot and cold foods and liquids, while metal bases have allowed the development of pots, like the pot with colander and lid pictured right, and kettles that can be used on camping stoves. The range is easy to clean, including dishwasher safe, and will not collapse when in use. These are real talking points as well as being highly practical.

Features include special air outlet valves that allow the food boxes to be used in a microwave. Like many Collaps products the food boxes are BPA-free and neatly stow away when folded flat, and as neatly solves the storage problem created by trying to pack bulky empty storage containers in cramped conditions.

They look good, too – check out the eye-catching vibrant colours and a range of table top products trimmed with bamboo for a sophistication that looks as good at home as they do when dining al fresco. And the theme is continued into useful additions like chopping boards and serving spoons.
