

NEW CHIC OUTWELL COMMODORE SLEEPING BAGS DELIVER TOP COMFORT FOR A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

The new Commodore sleeping bag collection from Scandinavian family camping specialist, Outwell, ensures a comfortable night's sleep for anyone who wants to get the most from their summer camping holiday. And the quality materials and performance features are wrapped in a stylish package that enhance the looks of any tent, caravan or motorhome bedroom.

Continuing its goal of bedroom comfort, Outwell offers Commodore sleeping bags in standard (pictured right), XL (pictured below left) and double (pictured bottom right) size options that use a polycotton outer and warm, soft-touch cotton flannel inner to hold two offset layers of Isofill insulation for reliable heat retention and luxurious next-to-skin luxury.

The super-soft inner is folded back over the upper baffle, providing the opportunity to snuggle into the extra filling of the thick cuff through the night and allowing the attractive print to add to the sleeping bag's overall good looks. The attractive print and soft-touch continue to the top of the loose pillow that complements the padded extended base for ultimate comfort at the head.

A two-way, L-shaped, open-ended zipper offers ventilation options as well as the facility to fully open the sleeping bags to use as a cosy duvet or zip two single bags together to create a double. Once the easy glide zip slider is positioned an auto-lock prevents it opening during the night until required. The zip is also protected by a full-length baffle to minimise heat loss and prevent cold spots and draughts.

Practical details include an inside pocket to keep small items, such as tissues and small torch, close to hand and a square pack sack for convenient transportation and storage.
